ENVISION

promise, swear, believe, declare, deny, allege, confirm, affirm, acknowledge or _____ (other)

A hole hath been ripped, opportunity is raw and the future is unwritten!

Yesiree is collecting compilation of individual envisionments of the future, officiated with a necessary verbal ceremony*, rung into reality, signed by all parties and by the State of New York sealed. While the participant receives a copy, each original form is added to a To Be Determined archive, a document of present sentiment, awakening, stirring, and oh so elocutionary. For optimum strength in esoteric legality, participants are asked to formulate What it is they Want, rather than what they don't want. One part accountability, one part covenant, magical and judicial practice, these spiritually legal statements together create a strength and solidarity that only the speaker personally knows if they are who they say they are, and that what they say is true, to the best of their knowledge. Whilst speaking, a magical and legal tether is created, whereby inexplicitly, by not keeping up their statement, they are, by law, committing an act of perjury.

“In the world I want to live, each person is accountable to and for themselves, not out of fear but out of good will and awareness of an equal power we each hold rank in. This is a place where trust begins in oneself and follows naturally to our neighbors and beyond.”
